Dear Mr. Thomas Green,

We, the class of 1980, present this dedication to you for the loving dedication you so warmly show to us.

In September of 1977, we, as sophomores, found our geometry class filled with your constant wit and open friendship. Within the last three years it has become obvious that your stern facade is equaled only by your desire to see us succeed. If we needed help in math, you were there. If we needed a friend, you were there.

Thank you, Mr. Green. We're going to miss you.

"HEY, WHERE ARE YOU GOING?"

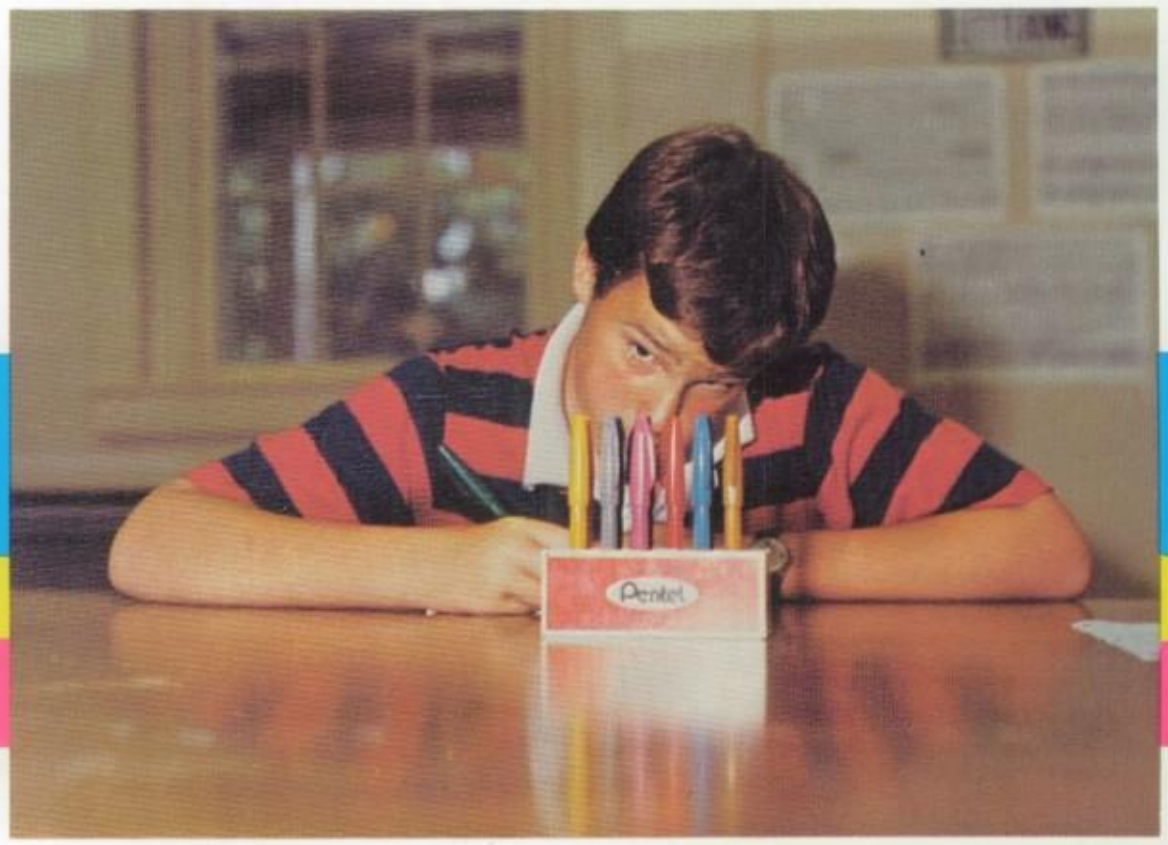
"What do you mean?"

"You know, which college?
What are you going to study?
What do you want to be?
Where are you going?"

"Well, I'm not sure.
First, Queen Anne;
and then, who knows?
The doors of the future
could open up before my eyes."



In the fall of 1964 Father Howard Arnold and a group of ambitious parents opened the doors of Queen Anne School. The school was not very large at its start, for there were only eighteen young adults in the school. 1969 marked the school's first graduating class in which there were only eighteen seniors. Since then, the graduating class has grown to thirty-three people and Queen Anne School is now enabling students to open doors for themselves. Indeed, the school has come a long way; for example, the art room and locker room in the Red Brick Church Hall were once a gymnasium.

Within these three pictures are examples of Queen Anne School's rural surroundings. These surroundings are but one of the factors which aid the students in shaping and molding their lives. The academic program, however, provides the key with which Queen Anne students can open the doors of their lives.

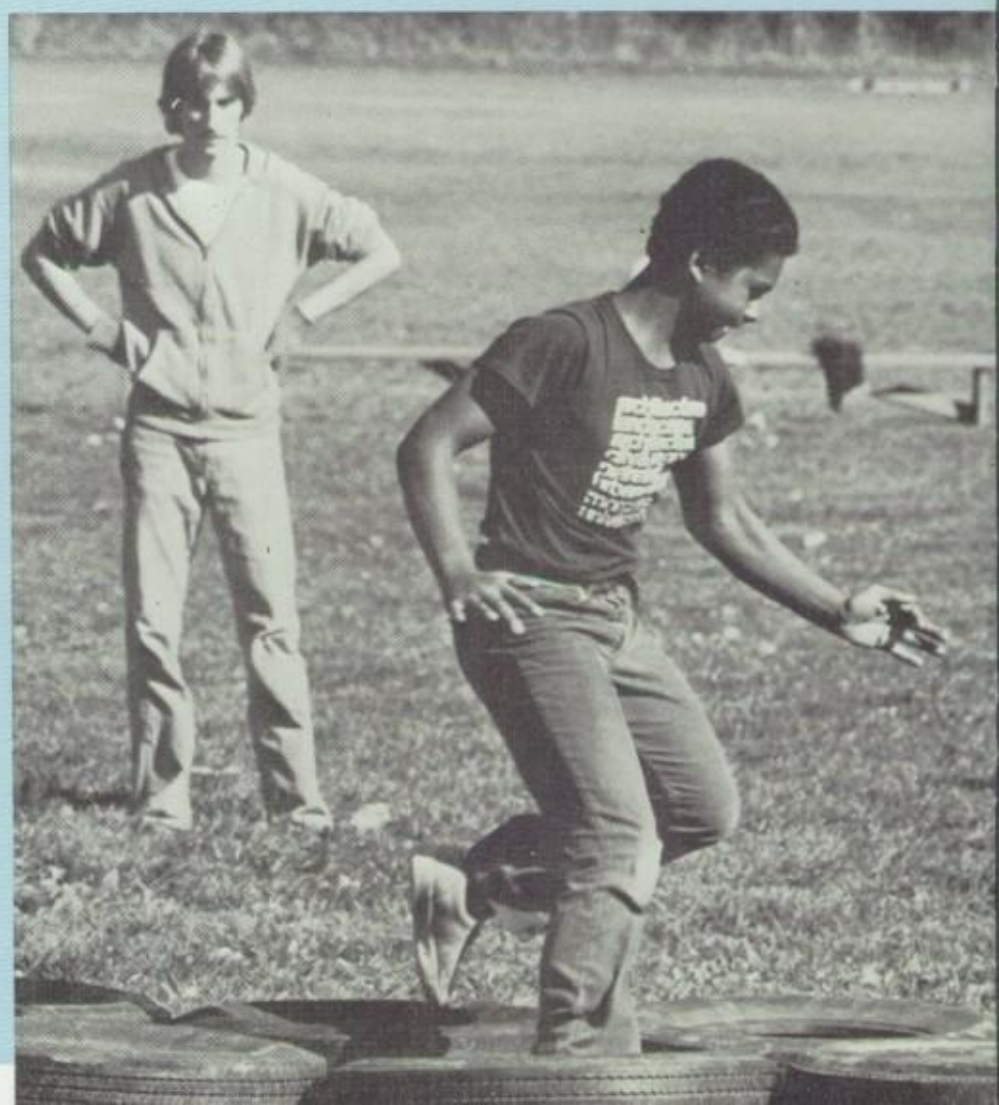
At right, Eddie Fisher displays the thoughts as well as the dress of the sixties. (Extreme right) Carla Hargrove directs Blue-Gold Field Day activities. Below, the Lions watch as their teammates pounce upon the Crusaders. Below right, the Blue-Gold teams prepare to do battle in the water balloon race.

The Pep Rally put everyone, especially the players, in the mood for the game. The Lions overwhelmed the Riverdale Crusaders by a score of 7 to 2. The Homecoming float with the Pep Club topped off the half time events. The next day, Saturday, October 27th, was Blue-Gold Field Day. The competition was close, but Blue came out ahead 190 to 125. The dance that evening topped off the weekend's events.



Darrell Kaeding watches as Etienne Mapily demonstrates his agility on the obstacle course.

HOMECOMING WEEK

In preparation for Homecoming, Thursday and Friday of the last week in October were special dress days at Queen Anne. Thursday was a day to recall the sixties. Students dressed in typical hippy style and thoughts centered on such issues as the Vietnam War. Friday everyone showed their school spirit by wearing blue and gold clothes.

An interested spectator, Doug Powell, watches field day events.

Kamal Abdullah uses his strength for the obstacle course.

Frank Stoetzel, Rhonda Montoya, Laura Maurer, and Scott Jung all put out effort for the tug of war.

The Queen Anne float passes by the crowd for a victorious roar during half-time.

On the twentieth and twenty-first of October, St. Barnabas Parish celebrated its 275th anniversary. The entire weekend was an outstanding display of both ceremonial pageantry and lavish banqueting.

The Queen Anne environment, with its rural campus, is the foundation of hope as we pass through the doors to the future. Yet, over our shoulders is a factor even more influential than the campus atmosphere, the Faculty. For the comingling in the Queen Anne Society of students and faculty is the first step for the opening up of our future.

you laugh, you run, you play.
Then Mommy calls, "Come in, its dark!"
. . . they're forgotten for the day.

At 12 years old, your friends are many
you giggle, you learn, you grow,
You mimic each other, you dress alike,

At 18 years old, your friends are true,
you listen, you feel, you give,
You laugh together, sometimes you cry
. . . they're yours as long as you live.

Question:
"You Call This a Soliloquy!?!"
To be, or not to be: is that the question?
Or is the question: What to be?
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to surrender your life
Or to take command of your own fate
And by controlling end the longing for death.
To live; to love; this is the goal
Not to escape the everyday trials of life,
But to make the best of them
To be your own person, this is a prize
Devoutly to be wish'd.

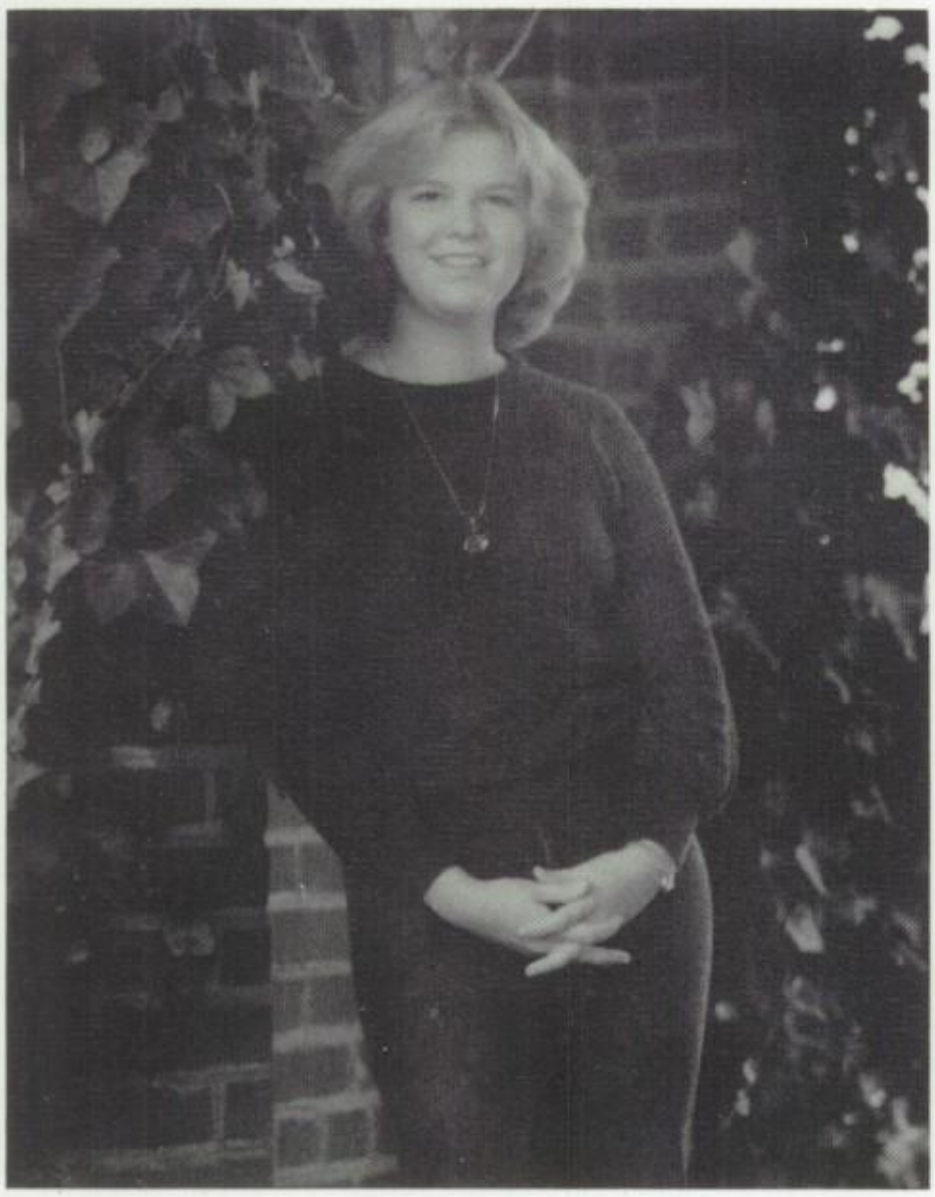
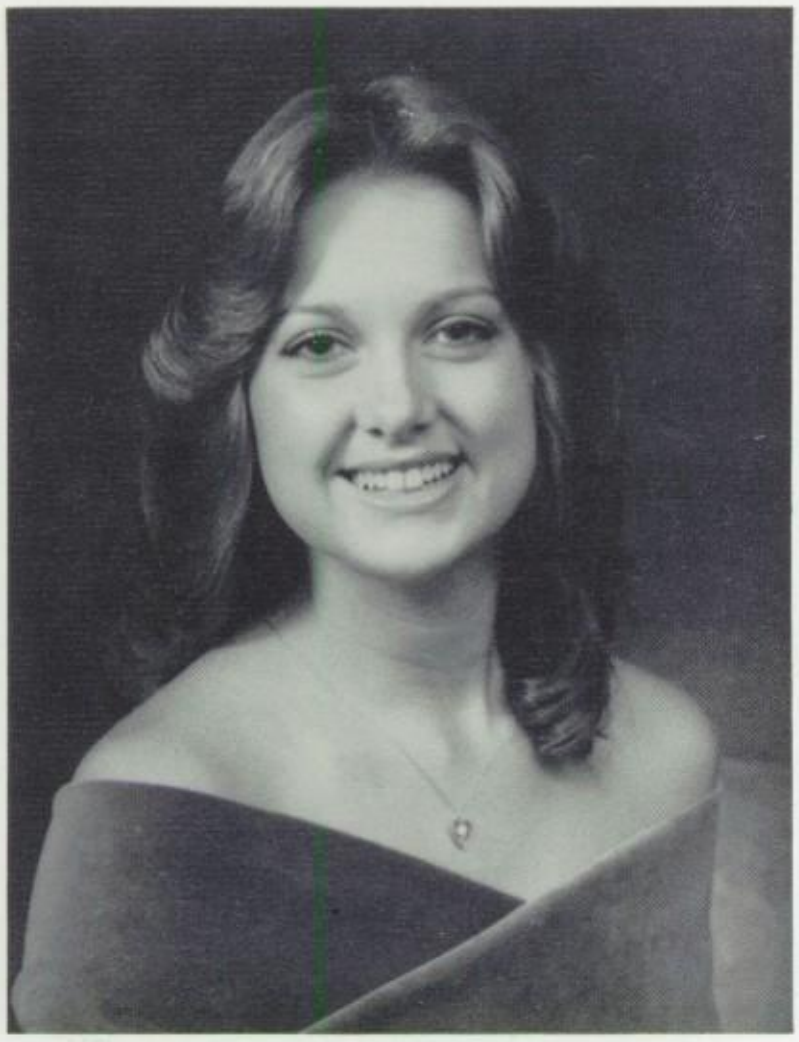
Letter of Commendation

To all of those people who made my years at Queen Anne so special: Elly, the FTS Four and the entire class of '80 — thank you. And, most of all thanks to the greatest family a girl could have.

Friends are like feathers that float through open windows to settle in warm corners. Doors open and pull them out swirling wildly, hopelessly into the cold. (Drafty currents are irrevocable) But in the iridescence of creamy moon-rays, they may fly together again, borne on wings of forgotten promises.





I wish the class of '80 the best of luck in their future expectations. I hope each one's dreams are fulfilled, for I believe each and everyone of you has the ability and determination to succeed in life.

I love you all!

Special thanks to my parents who are the greatest!

These years that we have spent together have been the best. We have survived the good as well as the hard times. We have shared everything from the bananas to the endless phonecalls over sad love stories. You have taught me how to cope with life when things get tough, and as I remember, we did alot of laughing. I'll never forget all the fun we've had together. I'm ready to move on, but that first step is going to be so hard without all of you. I wish you all the best of luck next year. Take care! I'll miss you terribly. I love you all!

There was fire in the mountains,
The loonies were forced out
Most were shot by eggmen,
But a few were still about

They ran into the highways,
Knocked over all the cars,
They boarded in their green guitar
And took off — for Mars.

The loonies heard the eggships,
Approaching from the rear
The green guitar was damaged
By the eggmen's orange spheres

The loonies saw a defense,
They made a human hand.
And that is how they crushed
The alien's eggship band.

Deep within our minds is the memory of a very dear friend, Brian Eisele. Brian died at the age of sixteen on October 6, 1979.

Brian became a big part of many of our lives. The class of '81, in many respects, has united into a whole in which each of us is an important part. We are united into what might be called a family. In this family many special moments are shared and strong meaningful feelings are developed between each of us. Brian was an important part of our family and our lives. He was loved and respected by all of us. Brian brought an air of happiness whenever he was with us, for always on his face he wore a smile. In that smile was love, affection, and concern, because we were a part of Brian as much as he was a part of us, his class of '81.

Student Life

Through his daily experiences at Queen Anne the student realizes both his abilities and his limits. It is through this realization that he is able to open doors to see what he will achieve once he has left Queen Anne. Through the activities as well as the time spent in the classroom every student learns to use his talents for the benefit of the community.

A member of the orchestra enjoying her lunch

On December fourth the Pioneer Philharmonia of Sofia, Bulgaria visited Queen Anne School. The members of the orchestra, ranging in ages from ten to twenty four attended classes with the students after being assigned to a "buddie".

For lunch the Bulgarian musicians were treated to an American meal including hot-dogs, hamburgers, cokes, potato chips, and ice cream. In the afternoon a special assembly was held during which the choruses, madrigal singers, cheerleaders, and the string band performed. Much to the delight of the students, two members of the Pioneer Philharmonia entertained them with piano selections and a mime act. The assembly ended with everyone teaching the Bulgarians how to square dance. A relaxation period followed during which rock music was played and snacks were provided.

Each visitor was presented with a Queen Anne T-shirt and other momentos. It was a fun and challenging experience trying to overcome the language barrier and explaining the customs of the area.

The exciting day ended with the exchange of names, addresses, and final farewells.

The production "An Around the World Christmas" on the 14th and 15th of December brought the full spirit of the holiday to Queen Anne.

Pavillions appropriately designed and elaborately decorated housed seven countries including France, Germany, Serbia, England, Scandinavia, Mexico, and Japan. Each was represented with authentic foods, music, dance, costume, crafts, and customs of the holiday season. Staged entertainment such as a Norwegian Wheat Pole Ceremony, a Sancta Lucia Processional, Mexican Hat Dance, English Caroling, a Chinese Dragon Dance, Swedish Starboy Procession, a Los Pasodos Pageant, and many more were presented at intervals throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus acted as host and hostess for the evening. The center court featured a spectacular twenty foot Christmas tree decorated with hand made crafts from each pavillion. The audience enjoyed and participated in an evening of delightful activities and culinary treats long to be remembered.

The entire school chapel service followed class parties; French, Latin, and Spanish carolers; senior breakfast; and mistletoeing Friday before a long-awaited Christmas break. The same night the annual Christmas formal brought friends together dancing to the music of Summit . . . until we are together again next year.

This year's soccer team enjoyed a very successful season finishing second in their division with an overall record of 13-6-2. Because of his outstanding play as goalie, Mark Farnan was selected as an All-Metropolitan honorable mention. The highlight of the season came during tournament play. By defeating St. Anselm's, Queen Anne advanced to the final game in which they were narrowly defeated by first place Ascension.

This year's varsity hockey team was a young team of eleven sophomores, five juniors, and only three seniors. The season record of seven losses, three wins and one tie was not as good as the tournament record of two losses, two ties, and a victory over Georgetown Visitation. The league comprised of the best high school hockey teams in the metropolitan area, is tough competition. Queen Anne's varsity hockey team held its own in determination, spirit, and steady improvement of skills as the season progressed. The team finished witha victory over Sidwell Friends.

After getting off to an undefeated start with four wins, Queen Anne's basketball team played .500 ball for the rest of the season to hang onto a winning season . . . a Queen Anne first for basketball. The leaders of the team were captain Johnny Graham and Randy Sword. Johnny was named for the second team of the Tri-state All Conference team. Mark Farnan, David Sheppard, and Jeff King also proved to be dependable players, for their performances were usually instrumental in determining the outcome of the game. Our junior varsity also surprised everyone and enjoyed a winning season with most of their losses being decided by less than ten points. Three freshmen, James Perry, Robbie Fettus, and Tim D'Zmura, made up the backbone of the team, each usually scoring about ten points and receiving their share of rebounds, while eighth graders Todd Roderiquez and Craig Miller could usually be counted on for a clutch basket or steal. This year's team had a lot to be proud of, and, hopefully, many will be back next season to help our varsity team.

It was a year of change. Coeur de Lion filled its pages with a unique format. Unlike other private schools in the area, the staff provided its own photographs for most of the book. Dear Mom & Dad,

I hope you don't mind if I use this space to say some things that need saying.

First of all, thank you for five years at Queen Anne. I've learned so very much — about friendship, love, joy, & sorrow. The rest I could have gotten anywhere, you gave me the best.

Second, I love you. You've taught me to appreciate the beauty in everything around me, you've taught me to value my friends and my education, but most of all, you've taught me to value my self. I don't say it often, but the two of you mean the world to me.

Always know I care.

All my love,
Donna
